Promoting brands
responsibly..

High quality and useful products are more sustainable than just using recycled fabrics.

ecovadis

We have partnered with EcoVadis to monitor our sustainability performance, identify improvement opportunities, and provide transparency to our partners and stakeholders.

SMETA | Sedex

We are proud to be a certified Sedex SMETA vendor. As the most widely adopted global social auditing methodology, it demonstrates evidence to our supply chain partners that we maintain responsible business practices. Auditors systematically review four key pillars, including: Labor Standards, Health & Safety, Environment, and Business Ethics.

safety-kleen.

For waste generated during the production process, we partner with Safety Kleen to ensure proper handling and disposal.

#RAINYDAYHEROS

Rather than discard misprinted umbrellas, we redistribute them to people in need. Other misprinted items are donated to local homeless shelters and other organizations identified by our distributors.

PRODUCT COMPLIANCE

Products and their components are rigorously tested for compliance to CPSC, California Prop 65, CCPSA, FDA and, where applicable, local and state materials and product safety standards.

SPECIALIZED RECYCLING

We work with a specialized recycling company to help us identify recycling opportunities, educate our employees on what can and cannot be recycled and reduce our landfill waste.

#2418RPET

Eco friendly is not a passing trend

Sustainable doesn't have to mean recycled or recyclable. Sustainable means "lasting". We invest in high quality products that can be enjoyed reliably for years to come. This intentional act results in a stronger likelihood that it will be kept by the recipient and less product ends up in landfills.

Nanotech Fabric: The Fabric of the Future

Nanotechnology offers the potential to create hydrophobic materials, which repel water, by emulating the nano-scale structures found in nature. Inspired by the hydrophobic characteristics of many plant leaves, this application mirrors the dewy morning spectacle where water droplets on these leaves form spherical shapes rather than being absorbed. Termed the "lotus effect," this phenomenon is particularly pronounced in the leaves of the lotus plant, showcasing the capability of nanotechnology to mimic and enhance natural water-repelling properties.
